Exite with simplicity

The Barcelona editing company is participating in the edition of ICFF in New York, new and unique annual event that aims to decode new trends, reveal talent and promote creativity through an accurate selection of its exhibitors.

In New York, Santa & Cole is presenting good designed and timeless objects which take full advantage of the potential of LED technology. Among other novelties we propose: CIRIO Chandelier and CESTA Inox.

Objects in which a particular way of living and of feeling at ease can be recognized, all of them sensitive to the rhythm of life in the 21st city.

Welcome to our 'home'.
We enjoy what we do.

We are editors

Publishing means making public a work that has usually been created by someone else, an author. We believe that a publisher's greatness lies not in having a powerfully large company but in the merits of their catalogue. Publishing is our raison d'être: considering, selecting, daring and offering sensible products and services to our contemporaries.

The overarching hypothesis to enable publishing is that designs can be protected as recognised and guaranteed intellectual property, rather like a book publisher but with objects, however large they may be. We protect the designer's original value and intellectual property rights from intrusive third parties, always and all over the world.

To date, over eighty authors have formed part of Santa & Cole at one time or another.

Our headquarters Belloch, a knowledge park

Santa & Cole's head office is an exceptional property with over 130 hectares of land in Belloch, 30 km north of Barcelona. From there we seek to promote the development of a knowledge park focusing on communications and industrial design. Internationally publishing and protecting high quality original knowledge has become the main thrust of our work.
